Welcome home,

The long-awaited return of the National Guard's 1355th Service and Supply Unit will be Saturday afternoon. Members of the unit, which includes residents of Bay St. Louis/Hancock County and Ocean Springs, are at Fort Rucker, Ala., where they will undergo the de-briefing and demobilization process until Saturday morning.

"As best we can tell, the troops will be routed down Highway 90, across the Bay Bridge," said Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre, who received the tentative plans from the Governor's office

"They are scheduled to leave Fort Rucker at 11 a.m. on Saturday, and should arrive here around

The transportation department at Fort Rucker confirmed the travel plans, adding the four busses will take Interstate 10 to Highway 49, and on to Highway 90.

We will have a law enforcement escort from the foot of the bridge, down North Beach Boulevard to Main Street, up Main Street to the highway, ending at the National Guard Armory on Longfellow Drive.

greet them, to be there to show them we didn't orget," said Favre, who asked that the public not attempt to join the motorcade. Due to congestion at the Armory, we would ask that only family members meet there to await their arrival. Favre hopes the first thing the soldiers will see when approaching Bay St. Louis is a massive flag spanning atop the foot of the bridge. The flag, on loan from Jim Henrie, will be mounted on poles, if all goes as planned. The Exchange Club of Hancock County will line Beach Boulevard and Main Street with flags, according to Favre.

No ceremony is planned Saturday, as the consensus is that the soldiers are anxious to be reunited with their families...

Several events are planned next month, according to Hancock County Chamber of Commerce executive director Cindy Vernon.

"A number of the veterans organizations have planned dinners and ceremonies. We would like any group or individual planning a function for

BMR to suggest Mullato Bayou for industrial use

As of Wednesday afternoon, Gary Cuevas of the Bureau of Marine Resources (BMR) made a recommendation to department head Larry Louis that the Mullato Bayou be designated for industrial usage within set from the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) that limits any change in the estuary temperature within a few

The DEQ permit allows the bayou waters to be raised from their existing temperature by only 1.5 degrees in the summer and 4 degrees in the winter.

The temperature of the effluent (fluid waste) discharge is not limited by the DEQ permit, but the effect of that discharge upon the water is would be mostly liquid used in the cooling process of carbon making at the plant, along with rain waters. Calgon estimates that fluid to reach a maximum of 110 degrees.

"Citizens for a Healthy Environment" member Dwight Bradshaw said the group is opposing the permit because of concerns that the 110 degree water, pumped at 277 gallons per minute, 24 hours a day, will harm the fish, animal and plant life of the area.

"We would like to see Calgon incorporate some sort of cooling of the effluent prior to its disposal in the bayou," Bradshaw explained.

Calgon intends to run an 8,200-foot pipeline along a 100-foot wide strip of land from its plant in the Port Bienville Industrial Park to the Mullato Bayou in Ansley, where its effluent waste will empty into the tidal waters.

Port Bienville Calgon plant manager Tony Wierzbowski states since Friday, Calgon has been making efforts to estimate the amount of cooling the effluent will undergo as it travels the pipe's length.

He added Calgon also has been looking at additional ways to cool the fluids before they

The BMR recommendation will be given today in Jackson where the permit for the land designation will be decided.

BMR held a public hearing Thursday evening in Hancock County for public input, where the question of heat concerns to the area were first raised.

The motion was made in response to pleas from members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, whose thrift shop has been housed in the building.

President Jay Fleuriet and society member Marie Braselman urged the board to hasten work at the center so that the society might return to its original home.

The society was asked by the mayor to temporarily move from the building until renovation work could be completed. They were given a tentative date of July 1 for reoccupying their office space.

Weidman said if one room could be repaired, the society could move back in.

Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson pointed out that the entire building was deemed electrically unsafe.

ON PATROL

PRESCRIPTION FORGERY

Investigator Glén Strong, director of the Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force, reported that a Gulfport resident was arrested Monday on a drug-related charge.

Strong said Rhonda L. Rouse, 28, of 12210 Ton Road in Gulfport, was arrested and charged with two counts of prescription forgery. She is currently in the Hancock County jail under $10,000 bond. The case is under investigation and more arrests are expected, Strong said. Agent Bill Pepperman, the Waveland Police Department's representative on the task force, is in charge of the investigation.

GRAND LARCENY

Investigator Matt Karl with the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported the arrest of a Pass Christian woman on charges of theft and grand larceny.

Karl said Charlotte Marie Giavotella, 35, of 154 Edward Ladner Road in Pass Christian was arrested July 18, charged with theft and released on a $1,000 bond after three marked $20 bills were found in her possession. She was again arrested Tuesday and charged with grand larceny after the value had been determined ($300) of a gold chain she allegedly stole and was wearing at the time of the arrest. She was released the second time on a $5,000 bond.

Karl explained that clients and staff at the Nautilus Health Spa in Diamondhead suspected that Giavotella was removing items from people's purses and clothing while they worked out at the spa. "We arrested her with the help of the people at Nautilus. They had marked the $20 bills, and two eyewitnesses reported seeing her take them from a purse."

He added that the chain was reported to have been taken from a counter after the owner left it there for safekeeping.

Karl said deputies Leo Ladner, James Ladner and George Burleson assisted him in the case.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Nathan Hoda reported that Ann M. Vittur, 21, of 6174 E. Oktibbeha Street in Bay Side Park, was transported to Hancock Medical Center early Tuesday morning following what she claimed was an accidental shooting. Hoda said Auxiliary Deputy Nathan "Corky" Hoda answered a call around 2:22 a.m. Tuesday. According to the report, when he arrived at HMC, Vittur told him she was accidentally injured when the .25 automatic pistol she was cleaning went off. The bullet entered her right wrist, exited by her elbow and went into her right side.

Investigator Hoda said Thomas Breaux, 25, of the same address, offered a different version of the incident. According to the report, Breaux said he arrived at their residence late that night and found the gun beneath the bed mattress. When he tried to remove it, he said, Vittur tried to stop him and the gun accidentally fired, injur-

Welcome to the proud 1355th

We all need to line Beach Boulevard from the Bay bridge to Main Street and then to Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis to Welcome the 1355th Home on Saturday.

Mayor Eddie Favre has been able to gather that the time of arrival is about 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon, and we have been able to confirm this by speaking to a bus driver at Fort Rucker, Ala. late Wednesday, who said he had just received orders.

The route is scheduled to be on I-10 to Highway 49, then to Highway 90, Béach Boulevard to Main, and Main to 90 and then to the armory.

We need hundreds, thousands of residents to line the road to wish our troops welcome home. They are our relatives and friends.

The members of the 1355th, a Combat Support Company of the Mississippi Army National Guard, has been on active duty for the past eight months.

Most of this time has been spent in Saudi Arabia, and each member has been missed by family and friends.

The men and women of the 1355th did their duty in answering the call of our President and have served in an henorable way.

It is through their efforts, and others who served in Operation Desert Shield and Operation Desert Storm in 1990-1991 that we are a free nation today.

We are a free nation because of our military, those on active and reserve duty.

The history of this country has been dotted with the need of activating reserve units on many occasions. During the Berlin Crisis our National Guard answered the call, and we pray that it will never be necessary for our unit to be activated again. But we are sure, that if called, they will be ready.

You may want to start lining up at about 3 or 3:30 Saturday to wave the flag, wave your hand and say

P.S. Please be reminded that the families of the 1355th will be at the National Guard Armory and it will be impossible for all residents to be there. Let the families have their time with the troops.

A recent report in Fortune magazine takes a look at the future of the South from an economic standpoint, and the news

According to this forecast, our region has something to cheer about when it comes to economic recovery?

The projections show that we will see unemployment drop, personal income grow and our gross regional product will rise higher than all but one area of the nation.

Some of the reasons for this good news can be traced to what we have done on the economic front over the past few years.

For nearly 70 years, we have weighed in last in per capita income. And after falling farther behind for most of the 1980's, we've begun to turn that In 1988 and 1989, our per That's faster than our neighbors in the Southeast and faster than the national average.

How did we make such significant progress? Some of that per capita income increase came out of an aggressive economic development effort that has created over 60,000 new jobs.

Other factors include a healthy increase of Mississippians in the workforce. Just last year our unemployment rate dropped to its lowest average in more than a decade. We've brought in over $4 billion in new investment, and we were first in the country in plant expansions per capita.

Those new jobs mean a lot to this state and the people who hold them. In some cases, it means an opportunity for our children to stay in Mississippi instead of having to leave to find, work. For others it means a new chance to make it with dignity and a sense of fulfillment. And it means a stronger economy for all of us.

From a business angle; between 1987 and 1989, Mississippi's total effective buying income grew by 4.1 percent, compared with a national average of 2.6 percent.

Mississippi is on the move. And when national finance magazines take note, we should all be proud of the progress.

Mississippi in the 1990's will see more jobs, a steady growth in per capita income and a strong investment climate.

As we chart our future, others are watching. What they are seeing is a state ripe with favorable promise, unbridled potential and a willingness to do business at home, across the nation and throughout the

BMR's regulations too tight on local sports fishermen

Reference to BMR's current bureaucratic "hate campaign" whereby BMR is overzealously writing tickets to fine visitors and anyone who might have a single redfish or speckled trout under the limited size. No one, to my knowledge, has caught a 22-inch red in the last three vears!

No, I haven't received any citations, but I have witnessed fishermen returning to the water bleeding, injured fish out of fear of being caught with one in their possession. This is an incredible waste of our natural resources! These fish will all die and rot.

After much discussion, it was found that BMR is lax in enforcing such size limits on commercial fishermen who regularly harvest many thousands of pounds of these fish—dumping overboard the undersized fish or, being scofflaws, sneak their undersized catch in so the undersized fish can be ground up and sold for eat food or for ivestock feed. Is it any wonder this resource is diminishing?

Why? Is it simply to force Mississippi fishermen to cede under pressure and accept a salt water fishing license? Naturally, the politicians have their eye on the hidden tax potential which might add to their coffers. They overlook, of course, a billion-dollar-a-year decrease in local business on the Coast. Such is simply outside the range of their special interests and any remedial vision! Just a few years ago mer-chants along the Gulf Coast enjoyed great economic progress and flourishing business from visitors and sportsmen. All was suddenly terminated when I-10 was constructed at least five miles above the Coast.

homes, stores, restaurants and gas stations. Another way the federal government interfered with and destroyed local business industry!

BMR and the U.S. Wildlife are doing the same again to force Mississippi fishermen to accept a salt water license and regulations to match Louisiana

Many fishermen are unaware that, when handling fish with dry hands to remove the hook, they also remove the invisible protective film, allowing disease germs to attack it.
The fish fill usually die after about a week to a month after being returned to the water. One should wet hands before handling any fish if it is to be returned to the water. Doing this will prevent the removal of the protective film coating:

It was assumed that the reason one was allowed to keep five undersized speckled trout previously was to prevent such awful and incredible waste of food and natural resources.

How much better to allow possession of five-or even three-undersized fish to avoid waste and the rotting and pollution of the waters in the Sound from discarding injured, dying

Why not have commercial fishermen raise their fish for the market in private ponds? This would allow wild fish to replenish themselves and assure recreational fishermen the pleasure of catching good fish again. Under such a system many wild fish would be able to grow to large sizes.
Mr. Greg Taylor, in a letter to a local paper, begs fishermen to get off the back of BMR." I think it's time citizens got on the backs of bureaucrats!

It's time to make taxes more fair to the family

Since the 16th Amendment was ratified in 1913 and personal income became taxable, the American people have been hit numerous times with personal income tax increases. Almost no one has been left untouched or untaxed-but no group has been hit harder than the American family.

We all remember seeing our paychecks shrink and our taxes increase in proportion during the inflation years of the 70s. But for decades, we have consistently been dealt another, almost invisible tax increasethe declining value of the personal exemption at the hands of inflation. In 1990 dollars, the personal exemption in 1917 was equal to $10,180. As Americans filed their income taxes this year, the exemption was only $2,050—only about 20 percent of the original intended value. That's why I am co-sponsoring and working hard to pass legislation that would nearly double the exemption from $2,050 to $4,000 in an effort to reduce the tax burden on the families of Mississippi and America.

While increasing this exemption will help most taxpayers, it will provide the greatest benefit to low and middle income families. This legislation would provide real and immediate relief to Mississippi families that already must struggle to make ends meet.

For example, a family of four earning $20,000 a year and currently paying approximately $1,800 in federal taxes would pay less than $600 in federal income taxes with the increased personal exemption.

Increasing the personal exemption would put money directly back into the hands of these families and give them the power to choose how best to care for themselves.

I have long believed that Congress should pursue policies like increasing the personal tax exemption-which is gaining strong bi-partisan support in both the House and Senatethat provide economic opportunity to the American people instead of policies that force us to rely on government.

Savings that are achieved through increasing this exemption would help us to get closer to a goal that we all want: helping families—particularly low income families—to be able to choose for themselves how to take care of their own basic needs and to allow them a means to pay for those needs themselves.

Personally, I would like to see the exemption increased even more. In 1950 for example, the personal tax exemption was 18.1 percent of the median family income. Today it is less than

If the 1950 rate of exemption had kept up with inflation, it would be nearly $8,000 today instead of today's $2,050.

There are currently several bills in Congress that would increase the personal exemp-tion. I am hopeful that we will pass one of them and provide some relief to our families. The bill that I am co-sponsoring and that was introduced by my friend Dan Coats of Indiana would also require indexing of the tax exemption to keep future inflation from devouring

Harlequin writer autographs at Bookends

By T. H. "Doc" Toups Miles was at the bar, mixing something special for them in the cuisinart. Margaret padded up behind him silently and whispered, "Guess who, Darling?"

As she slipped her arms around his waist, her lips met his ear and electricity coursed through their bodies.

They fell to the carpet, writhing like serpents. As they rolled wildly across the floor, the cuisinart's plug was yanked from its outlet. Miles gasped and stammerd, "Golly, I shoul-da' had that frayed cord fixed weeks ago.

"Wow, I coulda' had a Vee Eight," Margaret screamed. Afterward, Miles lighted a cigarette and they got married.

OK-so I'll never be a romance writer, but this past Tuesday I did get to meet one! Susan Daigre's Bookends Bookstore hosted Harlequin Romance writer Emma Goldrick for an autograph signing of her new book "Mississippi

The prolific author (with 33 novels to her credit) and her husband, Robert, are attending the Romance Writers of America Convention in New Orleans. While at Bookends, they captivated their audience with anecdotes of the successful-romance writer's life. While her books are authored under her name, Mrs. Goldrick freely admits that they are the result of a collaborate effort with her husband. "We write for humor," Mr.

Goldrick observed. It may be this approach to their craft which allows the pair to see the comedic side of some of their own experiences-and laugh at

Many of the Goldrick novels have been printed in foreign language editions, and it would seem that cultural differences have caused their publishers to take some rather spectacular editorial license at times.

A previous work contained a "mildly sexy" bathing scene, roughly a half page long. They explained that the German edition deleted the entire passage, though the French version managed to extend it for seven

To maintain her massive literary output, Mrs. Goldrick maintains a self-discipline which allows her to work quickly. One novel was finished, from concept to proofed manuscript, in six weeks. This she attributed in part to a lack of distractions, though this is not normally the case: "With seven grandchildren," she says "there are frequent interruptions."

The Goldricks, when asked the secret to successful romance writing replied, "The two keys are competent knowledge of English and a wide range of experience."

They reject modern writing aids, such as computer software for plot development and describe themselves as "oldfashioned storytellers.

Mrs. Goldrick was born in Puerto Rico and moved to Memphis, Tenn. when she was five years old. Her background includes time spent as a licensed practical nurse. Her writing career began in 1980. Mr. Goldrick was a career artillery officer. He is a native of Massachusetts.

The Goldricks' upcoming projects include a novel scheduled for November release and inclusion in a Harlequin romance trilogy. The trilogy, to be released in December, will include novelettes by three Harlequin authors.

Deregulation may benefit some Mississippi schools

BY TRACL BONNEY Fewer regulations may be on the horizon for some schools in the state. Last week, the State Board of Education announced a decision to free top schools from some state regulations. Those schools will be ones with low. dropout rates and high student test scores and enrollment in college preparatory courses.

State board spokesman Andy Mullins said the state plans to institute levels 4 and 5 in its accreditation standards for schools performing above level 3, currently the top rating level. Schools that reach level 4 will be freed from some regulations, while those that reach level 5 will be loosed from more, he explained. "The board hasn't identified all the regulations that may be dropped yet. That's what they are working on now," he commented.

Of the more than 120 standards currently imposed on public school districts, four must be kept, Mullins said. Those standards relate to health and safety, fiscally responsible management, maintenance of minimum high school graduation requirements, and test security.

Other requirements, such as class size and mandatory teacher certification, may be dropped for schools that reach levels 4 and 5, he said.

"If your school is performing at level 5; does it really matter what size the classes are or that all the teachers are certified?"

Mullins said the state board has been working on such an incentive system since the passage of the Education Reform Act of 1982.

District 46 state Sen. Vic. Franckiewicz said earlier this week that he is pleased with the State Board of Education's decision.

He called the board's decision a major step toward better schools, and said, "Eliminating unnecessary regulation will let good schools perform without bureaucratic hassles while the Department of Education concentrates its resources on the weaker districts."

He added, "Deregulation encourages school districts to innovate and respond to the particular needs of their students. It is a real opportunity for school districts on the Coast. Most of them already achieve high levels of accreditation; they are in a good position to benefit from the new policy."

The state's 151 school districts can qualify for deregulation starting in 1993-94. In October 1994, regulations will be lifted for the districts that meet the state board's

One local superintendent thinks the deregulation is a good idea, while the other has mixed feelings about it.

Bay St. Louis-Waveland Superintendent Robert Magee said, "It should give the districts more flexibility, more student offerings."

Although he can't be certain of how close the district is now to meeting the state board's level 4 standards, since they haven't been formulated yet, Magee commented, "I hope we will be able to meet the qualifications for level 4 for the deregulation by 1993." Hancock Superintendent

Terrell Randolph said that from what he had read and heard, the deregulation could benefit schools that have the finances to hire attendance personnel, tutor students and offer advanced placement courses. However, he also said the state's poorer districts could be hurt by the plan, because they would not be able to meet the state board's standards.

"I think it will be good for Coast schools, but many of the state's districts will not benefit from it," he commented.

Rural fire protection seminar held at Stennis Space Center held a 16-hour training seminar for area firefighters July 13 and 14. The seminar, called "Rural Water Supplies,' was the first fire protection training of this magnitude ever presented at Stennis.

NASA organized the event in conjunction with the 24-year mutual aid agreement between the Stennis fire and rescue unit and area fire departments.

Within the past year, NASA has dispatched personnel, fire equipment and ambulances on approximately 50 calls from area fire departments requesting SSC participation.

The seminar strengthened the mutual aid agreement by providing the latest information on water management and practical experience in deploying personnel and equipment.

The seminar presented classroom instruction as well as hands-on training designed to familiarize firefighters with the various means of obtaining and maintaining an adequate water supply in a rural setting. The training was implemented at Stennis by Johnson Controls World Services Inc.

James Webber, chief of fire protection at Stennis, noted that fire departments in rural areas experience a common need to obtain and maintain an operations and fill site adequate water supply to be in a operations.

NASA's John C. Stennis position to attack a fire of substantial size.

"Generally," he said, "when a fire erupts in a rural environment, mutual aid is requested because a strong water source is not readily available. This seminar gave us the opportunity to come together to learn first-hand about the number of men and the size and types of the equipment available in the area.

City and volunteer fire departments represented at the two-day seminar included Bayside, Long Beach, DeLisle, Gulfport, Saucier, North Central Pass Christian, Woolmarket, Nicholson, Pine Grove, Amackertown, West Hancock, East Hancock and McHenry in Mississippi as well as St. Tammany Fire Department in Slidell, La.

Chief Ronald Garber and training officer C. Patrick Shipe of the Augusta County Fire Department in Virginia served as instructors. Both are adjunct instructors for the Department of Fire Programs, Commonwealth of Virginia.

Among topics included in the training were: components of a rural water supply system, basic fire stream management, determining water delivery rates, position and function of the attack pumper, connecting attack pumper and supply pumper hose lines, tanker dump Weidman made a motion for the city "to advertise the surplus equipment either by itemized lots or by everything.

BY TRACI BONNEY No major damage or injuries resulted from an early morning fire Saturday on Sycamore Street, according to Bay St.

Louis Fire Chief Andrew The fire, at the home of Craig Singleton at 425 Sycamore, started around 4:32 a.m. Saturday. Lizana said it was confined to the utility room where it originated and part of the attic. No one was home at the time of the fire, he added.

"The damage was not too major because the firefighters did a good job of getting the fire contained and under control," Lizana commented.

He said the matter is still under investigation.

This is the third time I have asked for this. If it's a problem compiling this and giving it to us, I would really think the rest of this board...

"I think," interrupted Rap-pold, "this is an administrative job, Mr. Weidman, and not a legislative job."

'As aldermen we are a legislative body, not administrative.' Weidman continued, "But we are responsible for voting on the docket.

"And by voting on this docket, we approve and take full responsibility for all items that we approve.'

"Have you checked that there are purchase orders," Rappold questioned, "and that someone has signed for these items?"

Weidman "Barbara," answered, "the fact that a purchasing agent has signed a purchase order, if that was all the necessary paper work that had to be done, then I don't know why we as aldermen vote on the docket, it wouldn't be necessary.

Called by the board for a legal opinion, city attorney Lucien Gex answered, "As to whether or not the administration has to provide you with a breakdown of everything that is spent on city hall, I don't know.

'So long as it is available to you through public records and those public records are given. upon request...As far as giving you a total, I don't know that they are required to do that." Weidman then said, "If they are not required to do that out of common courtesy, since we are responsible for voting on the docket, can we not be furnished with all expenditures that are going on to city hall, and go back to my original point.

There is a capital budget that you set aside to do major projects with and then there is the general budget that you do everyday functions throughout

"It has been reported in the press that the renovation in city hall was only going to cost the citizens of Waveland $5,000.

"It was also reported in the press the renovations were all being done by all volunteer

"Tuesday I was in city hall and here are three firemen doing the work.

"I do not consider that to be volunteer work.

"They are firemen on the city payroll who are not at their duty station, who are at that time working in city hall doing another job.

"Their pay goes right on, and in fact, there's even been overtime payment for some of these people.

"So I do not consider that to be volunteer help.

"Question. If we are going to continue to piece-meal the projects at city hall, the board room and the renovations at the civic center, we are pulling the wool over our eyes and the eyes of the public?"

Gex retorted, "If it shows on the bills each month, you have the right to call it to public attention, which you are doing right now.

"As to whether out of courtesy they should supply a total is not my business. I am in the legal business.

"But, there is no requirement that they make up a composite. Though you certainly are entitled to see each and every expenditure made on city hall."

"I do believe," Rappold interjected, "some of these firemen are working on their days off...maybe some were working there rather than just sitting at the fire house while still being paid.

Weidman then changed the subject matter and said, "One other question.

"Lucien (Gex), as you are aware, this (the docket) is a computer readout which allows ery little room for information.

"Back in April, I offered a resolution before this board that the city clerk publish the docket and the minutes on the Friday before the meeting. A lot of these questions could be answered if we set forth and took up that task.

Rappold said, "You can't always have your bills and everything ready by the Friday

"It sounds real easy, but it doesn't always work that way.

"You have to notify every vendor that his update was changed.

"I believe this was explained."

to you at that time." "Well, Barbara," Weidman responded, "It would cost a 25-cent stamp to notify... "Twenty-nine cents," Rappold corrected. "Twenty-nine-cent stamp," Weidman continued, "for every vendor, and do that one time and send that out. I don't see a major problem in that.

The only thing I'm saying is this. This board is responsible for the bills it approves. We have discussed this at a meeting before this.

"If there are items on it that are bound to be incorrectly paid, this board will pay back up to twice the amount of that item. "Therefore I think it would be incumbent upon you that you would want to know what is correct and what may not be so correct.. Hubbard called question on the discussion. A vote was taken on the bills. Rappold did not vote since she was acting mayor. Ward 2? "Yea." Ward 3? "Yea." Ward 4? "No."

A husband and his wife, enjoying their autumn years, made suggestions on encouraging more community interest in the outlying areas of the district.

Maybe half of the department's full membership was present for this particular monthly meeting; but for those present, this hour or two of discussion was of the utmost importance.

Discussion of the previous month's calls-fire and medical-were reported.

Bayside claims 30 percent of its calls throughout the year to be medical, whereas the majority of fires are grass fires resulting from trash burnings or intentional

It was said that most of the previous month's runs were medical, a few grass fires and no structure fires.

Assistant fire chief, Albinus "Beanie" Zoerner, added, "We had a shooting, a stabbing and a man hit by a

"We did a lot of work with the sheriff's department this month

"We had people sitting out on watch for a hit and run driver until late in the morning."

The Bayside Fire District includes the western quarter of Shoreline Park, which includes the Bayou Phillips area. The majority of the district's territory encompasses Lower Bay Road through Ansley to Port Bienville Industrial Park, and back along Highway 90 to Lower Bay Road.

The department has plans to establish a satellite station in the Ansley-Herron Bay area in order to serve residents to the southwest more efficiently.

During the meeting a price of $7,594 was quoted for a 30'x 40' pre-fabricated structure, "able to withstand up to 100-mile per hour winds."

The price for the structure, intended for the substation, did not include the cost of the slab, the plumbing or the electrical work.

Zoerner, who has been with the department for seven years, said some land near LaFrance's Fishing Camp had been given to the department for just such a purpose "some time back."

"But the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) came out and found one little patch of rabbit droppings and declared it wetlands. So there went that," he said.

The department is presently attempting to purchase two lots in the area where the station can be located.

The Bayside Fire Department is located just off of Hancock Drive behind the club house circle. Three of their eight vehicles are tightly housed in the 60'x 30' building.

EQUIPMENT Inside the station house is a 1,500-gallon 1965 Dodge tanker, a 1,000-gallon 1969 Ford truck (Engine #1) and a 350-gallon 1982 Ford truck, used mostly for grass

A 5,000-gallon 1969 GMC tanker is kept on a vacant drive about 20 feet from the station house.

A 750-gallon 1968 Chevrolet truck is kept at a member's home near Ansley for access in that area. The truck is one of the original two vehicles the department acquired in 1974.

Zoerner said the Chevrolet was a utility truck donated to the department, along with a 1965 Dodge truck, by Coast Electric Power Company.

The Dodge was obtained by the Bay St. Louis Fire Department from Hancock County Civil Defense and was passed on to the Waveland Fire Department to vote on permission for the department to purchase a five-ton jack for the station.

Today the Dodge truck is still helping to put out fires in the Kiln area.

"Nothing goes to waste around here," Zoerner concluded.

The department has a 5,500-gallon 1969 International (Engine #2) and a 1972 Chevrolet Suburban used in medical calls and for rescue and clean-up following a fire. Both vehicles are kept at Zoerner's house, for lack of space at the station.

Lastly, there is the 1948. Mack fire truck which carries a generator for two 500-quartz emergency lights.

The 1948 Mack is best utilized in public relations work and as a parade truck and was most recently seen motoring in the Waveland St. Patrick's Day parade this past spring,

The volunteers do most of the mechanic work, Zoerner stated.

"We even do our own painting on the trucks. Only when something major breaks do we send it out to be repaired."

During the meeting Zoerner asked for the members

gested "Beanie" up the size of the jack to assure safety when working on the trucks.
FUNDING

The department receives the majority of its funds, more than 74 percent, from what is called "fire protection districts.' According to fire marshal Jay Marsh, a fire protection district is a body of five people who petition the board of supervisors for millage from the yearly tax collections for fire protection.

The next source of funding, more than 16.5 percent, comes from insurance rebates.

When a home owner pays for fire insurance on his home, included is an amount of state taxes.

Each fire district receives a rebate from the insurance taxes collected by the state. The county donates one mill off the top to the fire departments, Marsh continued. This amount makes up 5.5 percent of their yearly funds.

Finally, donations make up about 3.5 percent of the Funding has always presented the greatest amount departments were seeing five figures in the budget. Departments began to feel some hope in the struggle to provide adequate resources for fire fighting.

WATER SOURCE The members of Bayside spoke of their desire to see dry hydrants available throughout the district. A dry hydrant is connected to a pipe, which is located in a pond or water

There is no pressure in the pipe. It sits as a convenience for the trucks and

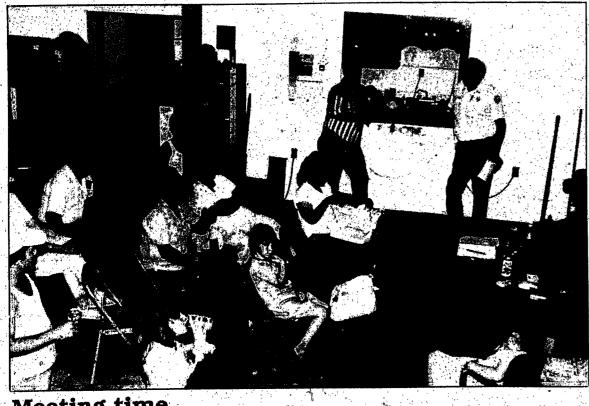

Marsh said a goal for the whole county is to have a dry hydrant available to every two miles of land. This way, as a fire is being fought, the trucks and tankers can refill within a closer distance, thereby saving time.

Marsh said the funds are there, and it is up to the various departments to 🐭 locate the water sources needed and solicit permission from the land owners to run the pipes.

Once permits are signed

VOLUNTEERING

As a group of volunteers, most of the members work regular jobs. The time they offer in service to their community is precious.

"It's hard finding people who are willing to be on call 21 hours a day," added one of the women.

"You can't blame people. "Sometimes they just can't do it because their jobs wouldn't tolerate their having to leave for a call.

Another member added. "We aren't all firefighters. There are other ways people can help besides fighting

A younger man jabs the speaking member in the arm and interjects, "Yea, just having you here helps!"

Though the action is in jest, smiles of sincerity spread throughout the faces of the room.

"I know a way the community can help," calls out a tall, lanky fellow from the back of the meeting area: "Tell people to mark their houses so we can see the numbers at night." Zoerner explained many homes have their street numbers written on the side

Some numbers are located on the opposite side of the street from their houses.

St. Stanislaus Varsity Cheerleaders prepare to leave for the Elite Cheerleaders Association five-day summer workshop at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College in Perkinston. The cheer-

SSC cheerleaders go up, up and away

When an emergency vehicle is traveling down the road looking for a particular number, unless he is traveling the same direction as the mailman, the numbers can't be read.

"People need to put numbers on both sides of their mailboxes and if they can on the front of their houses, too. And make the numbers large enough so we can see them at night." Bayside's volunteers all agreed that those few seconds or minutes lost on an emergency run, looking here and there, backing up, wasting time, could mean the difference between life and death.

The volunteers feel the county has helped with new street signs through out Bayside recently, but they also ask for more gravel in particularly muddy areas.

"There is nothing worse than making a turn and getting stuck in the mud and not being able to get to a fire," a firefighter moaned in memory.

As the evening became darker and the meeting was adjourned, a homemade cake was brought out in remembrance of someone's birthday which had passed.

Folding chairs were refolded and stacked in the corner and space was made to pull the 1982 Ford truck into its shelter for the night. Bayside Fire Chief Richard Fayard was not present for the July meeting because of a family illness. Suddenly a loud, blaring siren went off and Zoerner laughed. "It's O.K.," he said, "I set it off accidentally." Facial muscles relaxed and silent children began to stir with the sounds of impatience once more. The people who meet in times of need went home.

Dove hunting

Dove season this year may have a new twist.

A proposal will be made at the July meeting of the Com-mission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks that the first day of dove season open at noon, with the remaining days of the sea-son opening one-half hour before sunrise.

The proposal comes from law enforcement field officers, due to excessive demands by last minute license purchasers looking for hunting licenses after business hours and on the opening morning of dove season.

Enforcement officers say delaying the opening until noon on the first day should give hun-ters adequate time to buy licenses and allow time to inspect the hunting field for bait during daylight hours prior. to hunting.

Approval of dove season dates, bag limits, and other regulations should be received from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service sometime in August.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

Seawall fishing is perfect for kids

It's time to go fishin' y'all. I have had bunches of people (maybe it was four or two) who have been asking me where they can rent a boat to go fishing. I made several inquiries , around the area and could come up with only one name: Lafrance Fishing Camp in Ansley.

. The boats are very sturdy and can safely carry several people. All of the boats are hand-powered, so if you need to the extra comfort that you get go any distance from the land-on this pier (they even have ng, you will need several kids trunking water).

with strong backs or an out. A word of caution is in order being more on both board motor or both.

I know there must be several other places that rent boats out there. If anybody knows where at: nlease let tney can rem me know so I can let others join in the fun. Since my motor is sick this week, (it has one bad lung and the other three lungs refused to work overtime) I spent some time along the seawall.

Most of the people whom talked to were having a good time (till I came by) catching a mixed bag of small fish. Seawall fishing is a great place to bring a kid. Where else can you bring kids that is so inexpensive and provides such a great chance to spend so many happy carefree hours together?

It seems that all that is needed is a large (very large) supply of hooks, some dead shrimp, a few cold drinks and a bushel basket of patience.

The location is anywhere that you can find a place to sit down and there is at least one foot or more of water. The most productive spots seem to be around a bayou or drainage ditch that goes into the Gulf.

You might want to try one of the several fishin' piers that are open to the public. It is easy to tell the public piers from the private piers. The private piers have a closed gate across the front of them while the public piers do not have a gate across the front of them. The only public pier in Hancock County that charges a fee is the Ladner Pier in Waveland The small fee that is charged at the pier is well worth it for all about small red fish. There seems to be umpteen zillion small red fish along the seawall. The legal size for red fish is 22 inches in length, and the green men with the flashing lights are very protective of small red fish.

The law says small people will be treated as adult people when it comes to violations of game laws. Croakers, flounders, ground mullet, white trout and catfish don't have a size limit or a catch limit. Don't ruin your day out in the sun and your fishin' fun by keeping undersize

If you don't know what the different fish look like, BMR has a one-page pamphlet called: Quick Reference to Size Limits.

If you catch a fish that is not. listed in this book you can feel safe. No listing means thatthere is no size or creel limit on that particular fish.

You can get this pamphlet by calling 385-5860 or by writing BMR, 2620 Beach Blvd., Biloxi, MS 39531.

This week's wonderful wise words: When fishing off of the seawall, don't cast into the street. Concrete fish are hard to

Then you need Mobile Medic!

There's a reason thousands of Mississippi families are already members of Mobile Medic: Peace of mind.

The peace of mind that comes from knowing that, for only $42 per year, they're covered in the case of an emergency.

And, with our new expanded coverage, you're also protected in Hinds and Madison Counties. That means you're now covered on the Gulf Coast, in the Hattiesburg area, and in the Jackson area. From the Coast to Emergency care: No out-of-pocket expense to members ... $462 to others.

A typical bill for ambulance service and emergency treatment runs around $462.00. That's before you get your bills from the hospital, emergency room, or physician.

Your insurance or Medicare may only cover a small part of the cost. But your membership with Mobile Medic covers the entire uninsured portion of your ambulance bill. You pay absolutely nothing above your membership fee for local ground transportation.

And for an entire year, your membership covers you, your spouse, and all your unmarried children under 21 who live at home.

Mobile Medic is the leading ambulance service for Mississippi.

We handle emergency and non-emergency medical treatment for everyone in our area, including non-members.

But, while non-members pay for all treatment, supplies and ambulance service, our members pay no out-ofpocket expense above the annual $42

You must respond by July 31st.

BHS Housing Class

The Bay Senior High School housing class visited the Ethan Allen Gallery in Gretna, La., during the past school year. The students were given a very informative tour with interior decorators showing them various styles of furniture and explaining what to look for in quality furnishings. The decorators also explained how they coordinate furniture, wallpaper, paint, carpeting and accessories for their customers. The trip was the culmination of a semester of studying housing design and furnishing under the direction of home economics teacher Janet Roche. Last year's trip was the eighth time Mrs. Roche has taken a housing class to Ethan Allen Gallery, where the students had an opportunity to see and touch the various styles of furniture studied in the class. (Top left) Participating in the field trip were (from left): kneeling - Melissa Favre, Misty Revere, Charles O'Kelly and Christie Avery; standing - Angela Hurt, Angela McCabe, Maria Salazar, Tanya Sance, Larryetta Laneaux, Mandy McNair, Deidra Vontour, Audry Wainwright and Brandi Dedeaux. (Below left)An Ethan Allen interior decorator shows the some of the students how she helps customers coordinate fabrics and accessories. From left are Misty Revere, Maria Salazar, Angela McCabe, Tanya Sance, the decorator, Audry Wainwright, Brandi Dedeaux and Mandy McNair. Space Academy Level I trainees use the nation's only fullscale Space Shuttle exhibit to get a better understanding of how the shuttle works. Then they use Space Academy's realistic mission control and Space Shuttle orbiter mockups for training prior to a pair of simulated space missions.

Each team of 20 trainees is divided for the missions, with half in mission control, monitoring activities aboard the shuttle. Each person has a specific task: mission director, flight director, principal investigator and more. All must work as a team with the shuttle crew to ensure a successful mission.
